Within the AFL National Risk Protection Programme, JLT covers all players who are registered to play with a club to the level of cover taken out by that club.

In acknowledging that some players train to assess whether they want to register and play the full season, there is scope within the policy whereby ‘prospective members’ are covered for up to 4 weeks after their initial engagement with the club.

If the player or member doesn’t register within 4 weeks of their initial engagement with the club, they won’t be covered.
